HAGUE ANGUS RANCH HISTORY

If it interests you, keep reading for a little history of the ranch and my roots as a cow calf producer in western Nebraska.

The name Hague comes from the original settler of the land during the Homestead Act that we are now on. There is not a lot of information about him, other than his name was Hague and the Peterson brothers, my Great Grandpa and Uncles, acquired the land in the early 1920's.

The Peterson brothers split the 100,000 acres into four individual places. The land that Gust and Flossie (Great Grandparents) got was comprised of the Miles, the Gentle, the Kickin', and the Hague. My grandma had a sister that led to another split of the land. Martha and John (grandparents) got the Kickin' and the Hague; her sister and family got the Gentle and the Miles.

My grandpa John and Dad incorporated, forming 9 Over 9 Cattle Company in the 80's which came fully under my dad's control in 1985. Half of that is now Hague Angus Ranch.

The Hague Ranch has been around for even longer than the Peterson's and my family in the Sandhills. We were just fortunate and blessed to have acquired it many years ago. Grandpa through the 1960's and 1970's had Hereford's. Dad introduced Red Angus and Simmental in the 70's (my dad got good at pulling calves). After doing percentage cattle for a number of years, my dad bought his first Angus bull in 1986. We haven't turned back since.

Luckily my dad did not follow the fads too much, and didn't get caught up in the numbers and growth. A lot of milk and growth made sense when you calved in January and fed your cows every day with a mixer wagon. My dad saw the light though and started moving calving dates back to late March and feeding the cows out on range. When he started pulling the groceries, he saw more opens, mastitis, and overall problems. He knew his cows got too big and had too much milk, which is when he took his first step in the right direction and visited Tim Ohlde.

That was in 1998. He knocked out some frame and added efficiency from 1999 to 2007. Well, that is when I got back to the ranch from college and wanted to take things even further down the low input grass genetic road. I have maintained the body type that my dad proved to work. All I did was fine tune the genetics and bring registered cattle into the operation, but believe me, papers never changed the way we run them. And there still ain't a bit of sympathy for the ones that aren't working for us!

In recent years, my brother and I, along with our families and on good terms, have divided the ranch that Dad and Mom took over from my grandparents. Dad, Justin, and I are the only remaining family members on the land from the original 100,000 acre – four Peterson brothers ranches. All this history has led to the formation and creation of Hague Angus Ranch. I am a 5th generation rancher on this place and hopefully, with God's direction and grace – will continue on through my kids as the next generation.

"Raised in Our Environment to Thrive in Yours"

Raised in our Environment to Thrive in Yours is not just a catch phrase, it is a reality. At the ranch we have a no mercy policy that resembles that of a low input commercial cow calf producer, rather than that of a typical seed stock producer.

We are commercial cowmen and treat everything here as so. Longevity is the single most profitable trait in cow calf operations, but most leading bulls in the country or the major stud catalogs are out of cows that have only had 4 or 5 calves or less. The matriarch dams at Hague Angus like 912, 708, 443, etc. stuck around until they were 14 or more years.

Our environment sorts for us, and not a computer generated program full of algorithms. Cattle here are not fed up and flashy, but hardy and built to last. There aren't any silage piles or ethanol plants around our place. So why on earth would I rely on that for a long-term feed source?

We are just shy of 4000ft elevation with a 10-12 inch rainfall average. However, from 2002 through 2012 we averaged 5.2 inches of rain. Another downfall here is getting trees to grow. There are Zero trees on our place except for the homestead locations. We get 105 in the summer and can have wind chills as low as 60 below. The girls stay out on pasture year-round being fed Rio Nutrition mineral tubs, Hay and fresh water.

We believe in the hidden values of beef production. While most worry about how much their calves weigh, I care far greater for Longevity, fertility, Feet, Structure, Environmental adaptability, and efficiency. We live in an area that takes about 26 acres to run a cow. Our hills are made up of very fine blow sand and high alkaline ph, which leads to poor quality forage. The land here is very fragile and moves quick in a steady wind causing erosion very fast.

The good Lord blessed us with this little corner of the earth and we will continue to operate it and improve the things we can control. Which are heal the land, make hardy adaptable Angus cattle, and serve you as our customer to increase your success and simplify your life in the process.

Josh

Feed Test

Ryan and Brooke Amateis fed the bulls with a target gain of 2.25 pounds per day on a high roughage ration near Bridgeport Nebraska. They do a great job of growing the bulls and not getting them fat, to ensure structural soundness and longevity for our customers. They were fed for 150 days and anything that didn't fit the mold was cut in the spring.

NEWS FROM HAGUE ANGUS AND WHAT'S NEW IN OUR WORLD!

One of the very exciting things that has come to us this past year is our involvement in Grazemaster Group. Del Ficke is the founder along with Kerry Hoffschneider. We had our first conference this past summer in Sidney and will be doing one every year from here forward. The upcoming one is next June in Seward, Nebraska. This group of people involved in Grazemaster is very unique in the fact that we only have one thing in mind in agriculture which is leaving it healthier for future generations and putting more money back on the farm or ranch. Not by necessarily making you more money, but rather by saving and diversifying and investing in products we stand behind for healthier soil and better livestock. I am very proud to be a part of Grazemaster Group and if you want to start making changes for a better future reach out to Del or Kerry for attending the two-day conference in June. Or just find Del at my sale...He is the bald guy with a shit eating grin on his face all the time...haha.

It has been a challenging year for many folks in all facets of business. Especially in the cow calf world, due to our inability to pass the expenses down to the consumer like many other industries. Between expenses, the drought, and a bunch of asshats in Washington, it is very difficult at times to find anything positive for the future. I however feel that there is a trend in this country and good people are fighting back. I have hope in the people of the country still and believe the folks in agriculture are the tip of the spear to make a difference. Folks are starting to educate themselves through real research rather than crap mainstream news. The markets are always going up and down and all around, but one thing remains the same...folks love good beef and aren't going to stop eating it anytime soon. I feel like there is always hope for better times and that God's will for us as an industry as His stewards will be full of rewards in His time. Keep fighting the good fight and working hard and let the good Lord take care of the rest, cuz He always does. Cheers and God bless from Josh, Josie and the whole family and look forward to seeing you all on sale day!

Could be a twin to the last bull aside from calving ease. His mother is the dam to A1 No Mistakes, which had a lot of bulls sell off the ranch the last 5 years. Large heifers and cow bull.

One of the bulls that I contemplated keeping. The only XXP and he is a good bastard. Combines the best of Sinclair, Shoshone, and OCC. Eye appeal, carcass, and maternal. Very few bulls do it all but he just does. I will collect this bull some time at buyers convenience. Cow bull.
